

Workshop

Corruption Prevention: Integrating Corruption Risk Management within Governance Units

Tunis, Tunisia, 8 March 2022

Programme

Overview

In cooperation with the General Directorate of Governance and Prevention of Corruption in the Government of Tunisia, the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) is organizing a national workshop on “Corruption Prevention: Integrating Corruption Risk Management in the Governance Units” in Tunis on 8 March 2022, as part of its Regional Project on Anti-Corruption and Integrity in Arab Countries (ACIAC) which is implemented in partnership with the Korean International Cooperation Agency (KOICA).

The workshop aims to support the work of the governance units established in 2016 in state ministries, municipalities, public institutions and publicly held companies. These units are responsible for ensuring the application of governance and corruption prevention principles within the entity to which they belong, in accordance with laws and regulations. The units also contribute to the development of national and sectoral programs, strategies, and action plans for governance and corruption prevention. They also ensure the programs’ proper implementation and evaluation according to standards and indicators, especially access to information, and creating a culture of governance, transparency, integrity, and proper conduct.

The workshop will be attended by representatives of the governance units in ministries and public administrations in addition to specialized experts in the field. The workshop will introduce participants to UNDP’s Sectoral Corruption Risk Management (SCRM) methodology and the ways to benefit from its application for corruption prevention, implementation of the United Nations Convention against Corruption, and accelerating the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The workshop also aims to inform participants about the process of developing this methodology, good practices and lessons learned from its application in the previous cooperation between Tunisia and UNDP on corruption risk management in the health sector. The discussion will be followed by practical exercises in small working groups to deepen the knowledge and skills gained during the workshop.
